Why would anyone in the news media want to criticize the White House policy? The reason is simple: The White House policy is a dead letter in another, equally consequential area — immigration. Over the past few years, Democrats and Republicans have passed hundreds of laws that clear the way for the administration to deport the estimated 11 million undocumented immigrants in the country. But of all the measures, only one is getting much attention: The president's decision to keep the parents of Dreamers as part of the deal. That alone should be enough to get Mr. Trump's base excited about his reelection campaign. Dreamers — young people who were brought to the United States as children through no fault of their own, and who thus grew up here and become citizens — are protected by the Obama-era Deferred Action for
